GARDENING MAY BECOME IMPORTANT INDUSTRY HERE

A few years ago but little garden produce was grown in the C. P. R. Eastern Section. There were gardens, of course, but little garden produce was raised, but on most farms the gardens that were raised contained only a limited variety of vegetables and small fruits, and these were grown for the farmer's own use only.

The growing of garden produce has gradually increased. Individual farmers have experimented with the growing of celery, tomatoes, cauliflower, cabbage, corn, carrots and raspberries. Their success has led to the growing of these things by their neighbors, and experience has taught them how to get good results.

Now many farmers are growing produce for sale in town and for shipment outside the district. They find it is a paying sideline, and although prices are low for all farm produce, still, garden produce brings in a little money, and even a little is most welcome in these times.

The spreading popularity of gardening all over the irrigation project is leading up to the time when farmers will welcome the establishing of a canning and pickle factory in the district—logically at Bassano. The fruitfulness of the soil and the suitability of climate have proved beyond a doubt that garden produce in large quantities and of excellent quality can be raised. The other end of the business, the manufacture and marketing, is another problem, one that must be left to the manufacturer. What the farmer should do now in endeavor to get capital interested in the hope of having a canning industry established here.

The effort to establish a beet sugar industry established here has met with many obstacles and so has resulted in failure. Perhaps more success will be achieved with regard to the gardening and canning industry.

MINERAL WEALTH AT GREAT BEAR LAKE

The great Laurentian Plateau, which extends from the Great Lakes in Ontario, right across northern Manitoba, Saskatchewan, into the northeast corner of the Arctic, and reaches right on to the Arctic ocean has already yielded millions of dollars in gold, copper, and nickel, product of Ontario and Manitoba mines.

The old Archæologists, oldest geological formation known to scientists, constitute a vast storehouse of mineral wealth. Their great extent, reaching right across northern Canada, has been known for a long time. Early mineral discoveries were made in Ontario and Manitoba. Geologists and prospectors believed that valuable minerals would be found farther north and west, near the Arctic, but early searches were not very successful.

Recently, however, discoveries at Great Bear Lake, nearly a thousand miles north of Edmonton, have shown great promise, and mining men are beginning to believe that here another earth has hidden one of her richest treasure chests.

First, radium ore was found, then silver, and now we hear of rich gold deposits in the wild, uncharted country around Great Bear. The land has been but little prospected as yet. Much territory is still to be explored and examined for mineral deposits, but there seems little doubt for the belief that very rich ore is there waiting for the prospector and miner.

SHANGHAI FEARS RENEWED OUTBREAK OF FIGHTING

VICTORIA, Sept. 5.—Hated of the Japanese by the Chinese was never more acute and with Japanese aggression still strongly in evidence there may be a repetition of the Shanghai affair at any moment, in the opinion of Prof. William F. Osborn, professor of French language and literature at the University of Manitoba, who returned here today after an extended tour of the Orient. Shanghai was living in fear of another faraway that would culminate in the invasion early this year.

COTTON AND WHEAT WILL BE HELD FROM MARKET 1 YEAR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Chairman Charles Stone, of the United States Farm Board tonight announced that all wheat and cotton controlled by government stabilization organization and the American Cotton Co-operative Association would be withheld from the market until next year.

News of the Week

PLANS ARE LAID FOR WORLD CONFERENCE

GENEVA, Sept. 5.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, has suggested a first meeting of the preparatory committee for the World Economic Conference could be held in London during the last two weeks of September.

Mr. MacDonald's suggestion was revealed in a letter he wrote to the Secretary General of the League of Nations. He said he had ascertained that the interested powers would approve of this arrangement.

The letter was sent to Mr. MacDonald's capacity as president of the League Conference.

PARAGUAY AND BOLIVIA MAY BE OUTVOTED BY OTHER SOUTH AMERICAN POWERS

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 5.—Senatorial circles here today heard that the A. B. C. powers and Peru were preparing to declare Paraguay and Bolivia in a state of belligerence, in their dispute over the vast Chaco jungle.

The declaration would come under the Hague Covenant of 1907 providing for the establishment of an economic blockade as a means of stopping hostilities.

The A. B. C. powers—Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Peru—have been seeking as one to two groups of nations to stop the current hostilities in the long Chaco territory dispute.

The other group is the "Washington neutrals"—the United States, Mexico, Cuba, Uruguay and Colombia—and are seeking to arbitrate the boundary argument between the two countries.

They supplemented these efforts with requests for a truce to allow time to arbitrate the armed clashes of recent months.

KAYE DOX HAS MOTOR TROUBLE AND WOOD RETAINS BOAT TROPHY

DETROIT, Sept. 5.—The seventh attempt of a challenger to lift the Harnsworth Trophy failed today when Kaye Dox's motor boat broke down in the last lap.

For Gar Wood, champion defender of the historic bronze plaque, today's heat was merely a workout for his new motor.

The result of the race was most unsatisfactory to the 200,000 spectators who lined the shore and watched from many boats on the lake. Kaye Dox's boat still holds the world's one mile speed record of 1:35.4 minutes.

Gar Wood is going to try and break this record.

FARMERS WOULD LOSE ON GARNETT GRADING

TORONTO, Sept. 3.—If Garnett wheat had been separately graded during the past year growers would have had to take a cut in price, asserted Hon. Robt. Weir in a statement to the National Agricultural Conference.

Contrary to the opinion of the National Research Council, said Mr. Weir, the department of agriculture he administers, had taken the stand there was not sufficient evidence to justify the separate grading of Garnett. The department did not accept the view that Canadian wheat was less satisfactory to the United Kingdom millers after Garnett came on the picture.

Mr. Weir declared no person would be more eager to support the separate grading of Garnett wheat than he if it were beneficial to wheat growers. As a result of the arguments advanced by his department the whole matter had been held over for further discussion before the meeting of the Grain Standards Board in September.

He did not wish to criticize the National Research Council, added Mr. Weir, for bringing about a situation which had given "millers of a nightmare to thousands of farmers who are endeavoring to grow wheat in areas where Garnett wheat is the early ripening variety and high yielding ability, has proven such a boon."

WEST MAKES CLEAN SWEEP WITH BUTTER

TORONTO, Sept. 5.—Western Canada made a virtual clean sweep in the butter awards at the Canadian National Exhibition here, in near exhibitors from Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta lifted the amazing total of 145 awards.

Western exhibitors, particularly those from Manitoba, took the bulk of the places in the blue ribbon group for creamery butter in all classes. The silver cup for the highest scoring creamery butter went to the Minolta Creamery, Manitoba.

SAYS SALVATION OF CAPITALISM IS IMPOSSIBLE

E. J. Garand, M. P., asserts system is eventually to collapse. "Capitalism will not collapse today nor next week nor next year, but it will collapse, and nothing can save it, if for no other reason than that it has proven its inability to distribute as well as produce. If you are one of those who think capitalism and private initiative are fine things, save the system if you can, but we of the Farmer-Labor party are determined that you shall not add to human misery by saving it."

This was outstanding in the address given Monday evening by E. J. Garand, M. P. for Bow River, at a meeting in the Canadian Legion hall, Calgary, under the auspices of the Calgary Trades and Labor Council. The hall was filled.

"The farmer used to think he was a capitalist," continued the speaker. "He thinks differently after the past four years. We have a situation today in which one man would have to pay an acre a day for 100 years to pay for a small operation to her owner, and in which the farmer would have to shear nine sheep each year for 86 years in order to buy a suit of clothes. Both farmer and consumer get soaked."

The speaker ridiculed the idea of the "dignity of labor," branding it as a superstition. No slavery was worse, he said, than the conditions under which people worked in large industrial establishments of the present day, labor which was forced because of the workers' necessity for making a living. It was folly to think that such labor would help to build up the people.

Result of Study "Unemployment cannot be cured by capitalism," continued the speaker. "I say this from the results of ten years of intense study. There is much idleness, and yet one man who voted his thought to me admitted that his function in life was to be able to retire from business, free himself from it and yet still have the desire of every one of us, and I do not apologize for my own desire in this respect. Increased idleness, if it is to be accompanied by adequate means, will perform miracles. The possibilities of human genius have not been exhausted, and who knows what heights the human race has not within its reach?"

'CROW'S' NEST COAL DISPUTE IS SETTLED

BLAIRMORE, Sept. 5.—The entire report as made out between the Mine Workers' Union of Canada and the West Canadian Coalfields in conference with Premier Brownlee some days ago was accepted unanimously at Blairmore Thursday. The decision was reached at a mass meeting of the Blairmore and Bellevue strikers after the committee of both towns had met and recommended such action.

Youthful Strength

Dr. Magnus Hirschfeld, the world-known authority on Sexology and Director of the Institute for Sexual Science of Berlin, Germany, created to help the millions of men and women who have lost or are losing their vital physical power. In his 35 years of practice and research, however, he realized that the weakening of man's glands was also responsible for other troubles: High blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, physical exhaustion after work or exercise, dizziness, depression, neurasthenia, etc.

All these troubles can be removed with Titus-Pearls. Numerous cases were treated by Dr. Hirschfeld in his Berlin Institute. L. B. (State official, 48 years old, married) complained of physical exhaustion, dizziness and tremors. Was easily tired. Mental powers dull and slow moving. Physical powers had been incomplete general health better, more vigor; dizziness much less and returning of power. Treatment continued and 2 weeks later L. B. reported he felt fresh and buoyant. His blood pressure had fallen, and at 46 years of age he had regained the physical power and vitality that he had known in the prime of his life.

Start regaining your youthfulness now! To-day! In 2 weeks you will be aware of the new, virile force within you. Send $5.00 (cash or money order) for 2 weeks treatment.

FIFTH INSTALLMENT
SYNOPSIS: Johnny Brown, 15 years old, who spent all of his life aboard a Hudson river tugboat plying near New York, is tossed into the river in a terrible collision which kills the tug, drowns his mother and the man he called father. Ignorant, uneducated, and fear driven, he drags himself ashore, hides in the friendly darkness of a covered track—only to be kicked out, set down into the midst of a tough gang of river rat boys who beat and send second hand clothing store. He then enters a new life on the Bowery near New York, John and Mocha visit Central Park where John sees many strange and new sights. They are caught in a storm, and have to change him. He escapes into a basement doorway where he hides. The next day he is rescued and taken into the home of a Jewish family living in the rear of their second hand clothing store. He works in the sweatshop store and is openly courted by Becca, the daughter. The scene shifts to the home of the wealthy Van Horns, on 8th Ave., where lives the bachelor, Mr. Van Horn. In whose life there is a hidden chapter.

Now go on with the story.
 It was in the summer of 1883 that the great internal and husbanded scandal of the Hallett-Van Horn household had its beginning at the country place in the Hudson valley, a fine mansion overlooking Hill Gate. Gilbert, born at his junior year at college, was being sheltered from the vile contents of the city and the hands of Brooklyn Van Horn. He was studious, but not so much of books as of nature. Mrs. Hallett-Van Horn's maid, a comely, lively girl named Harriet, the most satisfactory housemaid Mrs. Van Horn had ever enjoyed, stumbled upon Gilbert at ease in his mother's boudoir, reading Nick Carter. Mrs. Van Horn was in the city shopping. The fact that the maid had peeped from a luxurious bath may have added somewhat to the astonishment of the young man. For the first time he was aware of the fact that he was not alone in the world. Very early the next year a condition of extraordinary difficulty befalling his mother, Harriet, to be quite plain, was in a family way, a decidedly unusual condition. In view of the fact that she alone seemed able to do Mrs. Hallett-Van Horn's house, Harriet would not consent to the home of the culprit. Harriet supposed, if the truth were known, that she would be imprisoned for life.

The eager flocker of suspicion hovered about the house. It raked in turn, on every male. Even Julius the page, was under suspicion. "No, m'am, it was not him," so Harriet persistently absolved them, one by one, in the daily, hourly inquisition.

The butler, old Simmons' Lord no man! Not him, oh, no, not!" could it be an immaculate conception? Mrs. Hallett-Van Horn most wished her faith was strong enough to believe it, but so, a miracle of that sort might happen to her, but not to that girl. The month of atonement followed. The situation became worse. Her husband, Reverend Van Horn, must be the guilty party. He simply must. The matter was brought before him to the point of speaking before him.

"Beggins' your pardon, Mr. Van Horn," Simmons' impinged outside the door as Brevoort left his wife's apartment. "May I speak sir?" "By all means, Simmons. Who in hell did it?" "I hope you will pardon my presumption, sir." "Simmons, spill it. Was it the parson, or who?" "It was Mr. Gilbert, sir." "Brevoort stood some time what dazed. "Great Jupiter! Her son. And mine," he added, as an afterthought.

"Well, I'll be damned!" he brought down of Gilbert from college—he was coming anyway for the midyear recess—was an event, but had not forgotten the incident of the preceding fall. In fact he had rather lively ideas of a renewal of the affair. Gilbert, also, was a simple fellow.

"Your mother wishes to see you, at once, Mr. Gilbert." The young man was in the library. Brevoort stood before the fireplace, shifting from one foot to another. He had paid a visit to the curious appearance of a man who is standing in a puddle of mud.

Mrs. Lila Hallett-Van Horn reclined in a large cushioned chair, her back to a window. She was fully and somewhat formally dressed. She had a black lace, thrown over her shoulders, intensified her pallor. Husband and wife did not speak after all he had done them to accuse her boy.

When young Gilbert came into the rather tense room, his father gave him a look of pity. Mrs. Van Horn, Gilbert, a moment, subdued, smiled at his wailing. He bent, and he kissed his forehead. Her cheeks flushed. That handsome boy! Her boy!

Gilbert, causing something unusual wondered what was up. "Gilbert," Brevoort tried to get things moving. He was due down at the club, at Twenty-first Street, a steady drat, at four. "Your mother has asked us here. I have asked you. Gilbert, I mean we, the two, your mother and me."

"None," Mrs. Hallett interposed, her voice sharp. "Not me, Mr. Van Horn, you and, and Simmons." She turned into her hands, a handkerchief dabbed at her glistening eye. "Was the tale," Brevoort was somewhat at a loss. "Let us send for her." He looked pleadingly at his wife. Of course. It was a brilliant idea. "Ring for Simmons." "Simmons," Mrs. Van Horn spoke with icy coolness. "Have Harriet come up at once." The matter would now be settled.

They stood for some minutes, staring, father, mother, son. Gilbert, his eyes on the fire, began to do some thinking on his own account. The girl told of—of—He had not looked at it in that light, any harm to his parents, you know.

"Harriet can't be found, m'am," Simmons' reported. "She left the house, m'am, cook says, this noon she took her own things. She has apparently left, m'am."

"Mother," Gilbert, awkward, nervous, asked. "What about Harriet?"

"Son, oh, how can I say it. The awful lies, the horror of it!" She covered her face, her hands trembled; she shook her head, her delicate white hands trembled, her rings flashed in the twilight. "I simply can't say it. Deny everything, Gilbert. Tell them they're wrong."

"Son," Brevoort's quick eyes caught the look of consternation, of realization in the boy's face. Again he had an uncomfortable feeling that this thing, if told to the club, would meet with roars of mirth.

"Mother's maid, Harriet, is about—that is, to become a mother. We, that is, I—Gilbert, not me," she sobbed and trembled.

"We believe you are responsible for her condition. Is that so?" Gilbert hung his head for a time, then he looked straight at his father past his mother who suddenly fell asleep, his eyes bright and eager for the glad denial, ready, willing, anxious to hear him sink back the vile insinuation, fling it back like a Hallett.

"I suppose I am to blame. I—"

THE COST OF PRODUCING CROPS (Experimental farms note)

The prevailing prices of farm products and the possibility of these low prices continuing for some time, caused farmers to give the question of the cost of production their most serious consideration. Not only should an intensive analysis be made of the cost of crops entering into the cost of production, but all the necessary steps should be taken immediately to reduce the controllable items to the minimum, and to increase the efficiency.

This will involve, the use of labor to the fullest extent in direct productive operations, the utilization of power, whether horse or tractor, to as nearly as possible its maximum capacity; the selection of the maximum amount of the necessary equipment in its proper size; and the better management of the land capable of producing good crops because the cost of production per unit varies inversely with the yield.

Great economies can be effected by reorganizing the supply of labor and power and by more efficient management of these two controllable factors on many farms. This is brought out clearly on page 26 of bulletin No. "Cost of Producing Farm Crops in the Prairie Province."

For a copy of this bulletin, write to the Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn. The above publication is based on data collected from 125 branch farms over a period of years as well as data secured from a number of private farms.

GOOD RESULTS ON ECLIPSE BY ONE EXPEDITION

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 2.—"Astonishingly successful" results have rewarded a band of scientists who studied the eclipse at Arton Vale, Quebec, last Wednesday. It was announced.

After working unceasingly for many hours on the combined predictions of their totality eclipse date, it was announced the results were far beyond expectations.

The nucleus of the expedition was composed of members of the Royal Astronomical Society, Hamilton branch. For three days the observers shared the prospect of a clouded eclipse. The clouds parted 10 minutes before the scheduled time and perfect visibility resulted.

Twenty exceptionally clear plates recording totality were exhibited by Dr. B. Marsh when he stepped from the dark room where he worked alone on the delicate developing process.

His conferees believe these plates are "possibly the only perfect record of totality on the North American continent."

Would You Cook An Unwashed Potato?
 YOU would not think of serving potatoes or other vegetables from the garden without thoroughly washing them. Why use flour made from unwashed wheat?

If you were to examine a grain of wheat under a magnifying glass, you would find it covered with dirt and bacteria similar to the soil and scab which adhere to a potato when it comes from the hill. The "crease" of the kernel holds dirt with a tenacity that requires scrubbing and scouring such as you use to clean the skin and eyes of a potato.

Good wheat may look clean, but you should visit one of the great modern mills of Robin Hood and see their huge washing machines at work, each one using 100,000 gallons of water every 24 hours. See with your own eyes, and feel with your own hands the yellow mud and fibrous waste which is washed from the wheat before it is milled into Robin Hood flour.

Flour made from unwashed wheat has a dark color and the foreign material which it contains gives a bad taste to your bread. Robin Hood flour, made from washed wheat, is white in color and gives a rich flavor to your bread, cakes and pastry. It is the safe, sensible flour for your home.

"Always at Your Service"

Give Your Child an Opportunity to Study Music

by joining the Music Class conducted by

ETHEL TALKINGTON KNOX

Over 10,000 pupils in the Dominion are enjoying the privileges of group instruction in piano playing; leading educators recognize the potent value of this work in training children the elements of music. The competitive spirit of class work makes greater progress in learning the essential fundamentals which young children find income in private instruction.

The very amateur for at which such instruction may be had makes it attractive enough that anyone can take advantage of this covering whether expense of private lesson fees would be warranted.

CLASS STARTS SATURDAY, SEPT. 10th
